ABOUT CONFERENCE

GSBG 2027 brings together scientists, bioengineers, researchers and industry professionals in Singapore for a two-day programme.

Sessions cover synthetic biology and biomanufacturing, genetic engineering and CRISPR, tissue engineering and biomaterials, medical devices and biosensors, bioinformatics and computational biology, biomechanics and prosthetics, and industrial biotechnology. Regulation and bioethics are treated as part of the technical programme rather than as a separate track.

The meeting draws from both academic laboratories and commercial development, and the programme is weighted towards work that has produced results. Presentations are given in oral and poster sessions.
