ABOUT CONFERENCE

GCGD 2027 brings gastroenterologists, hepatologists, endoscopists and researchers together in Singapore for a two-day scientific meeting.

Sessions address inflammatory bowel disease, hepatology and liver disease, therapeutic endoscopy and interventional gastroenterology, gastrointestinal oncology, functional and motility disorders, the gut microbiome, paediatric gastroenterology, and nutrition and coeliac disease. A dedicated session considers artificial intelligence in endoscopic practice.

The programme favours work with direct clinical application, and presentations are given in oral and poster sessions with time for questions.
